Sixth War Bond Drive Calls To Every Earning American

As the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Tigers take the field in their National Football League contest here today, the Sixth War Bond drive is under way. It was opened formally by the President of the United States last Sunday night, with a dramatic and urgent radio appeal to every earning American.

It is fine and dandy to be at home here, enjoying football games and other sports. It is right that you on the Home Front keep your psychology high and your spirit sharp, to see this thing through to a victorious conclusion.

However, you cannot ignore the demands of our boys overseas. There are bills to be paid, and you have to pay them.

Buy Bonds! Buy Bonds not only while the drive is hot. Buy them all the time. They are the grandest financial investment in the world.

Buy Bonds! Get behind all the government and service agencies and branches. The O.P.A., for example, needs volunteers, to give five hours a week to the Price Panel. Come to O.P.A. headquarters at 1775 Broadway, or call COlumbus 5-4575, extension 38.

The Red Cross wants you to donate an occasional pint of blood so that our wounded may be healed back to health.

Don't just read about the war, and merely admire the job our men are doing over there. Get behind activities over here.

BUY MORE WAR BONDS! KEEP BUYING THEM!

Where Skill really Counts . . .

It takes more than a football suit to make a star half-back . . . and it takes more than a distilling plant to make a truly great whiskey like Seagram's 7 Crown.

Yes . . . and it takes even more than treasured reserves of many different fine whiskeys . . . even more than ample stocks of genuine neutral grain spirits. Most of all, it takes skill, and craftsmanship, and experience, to achieve the exquisite flavor and bouquet and mellow lightness of Seagram's 7 Crown to keep its rare excellence unchanged in wartime.

Today, as always, Seagram's 7 Crown is one of the world's great whiskeys . . . every drop 100% pre-war quality. True, it's scarcer now than usual . . . but there's still enough for you to enjoy in moderation. Sip it slowly . . . savor its excellence . . . and be thankful that Seagram's 7 Crown is still to be had!

Owen's Line Veterans Are More Effective Than Ever

MEL HEIN

LEN YOUNCE

THERE are backfield superlatives on the New York football club. Those of you who have been watching Steve Owen's club all season know how Bill Paschal, Howie Livingston, Arnie Herber, Ward Cuff, et al, have been turning in amazing feats week after week.

But, as Stout Steve likes to keep saying, "Nearly all football games are won or lost up front. The line,—that poor, old ignored line,—has to dish it out and take it."

Owen's line veterans have been magnificent. The great triumph over the Packers last week, 24 to 0, showed Mel Hein and Len Younce at their best.

The West Point football squad watched that contest, and when it was all over, the Cadets exclaimed, "Boy, that Younce man is one whale of a guard! And how does that Hein, at the age of 35, do the things he accomplished this afternoon?"

It's a matter of skill, and spirit, the will to win and the know-how.

Younce is not only a great lineman, but has the distinction of being a remarkable kicker. He comes out of that line to do the punting and can boot the pigskin with the best of them.

HERE'S JUST WHAT

Giants and Brooklyn Never Let Fans Down a Minute

PUG MANDERS

BRUISER KINARD

THE game here today marks the thirty-second meeting of New York and Brooklyn in the National Football League. The Giants already have won from the Tigers this season, in Flatbush,—14 to 7. Now the re-named Dodgers are at the Polo Grounds bent on revenge.

The series between New York and Brooklyn was started with the entry of the Flatbush club into the circuit in 1926. New York took both games that year, 17 to 0 and 27 to 0.

There was a break thereafter because of Brooklyn's difficulties in remaining in the league. But when they picked up the series again in 1930, Brooklyn handed the Polo Grounders a stunner, 7 to 6.

A recapitulation of the series shows that the Giants have won 23 games, Brooklyn 5, and three resulted in deadlocks.

National League in Twenty-fifth Year

THE 1944 season marks the twenty-fifth campaign of the National League, the twenty-fourth of the New York Giants.

It was on September 16, 1920, at Canton, Ohio, that the National League was formed. Jim Thorpe, the Sac and Fox Indian marvel, had summoned 16 men to the session.

At first these sixteen called it the American Professional Football Association. It was a sickly youngster. But in 1925 a vitamin named Red Grange cured its publicity rickets. Then the depression, ironically, gave it a chance to make some money. By the time it became of age in 1940, this struggling orphan which once peddled franchises at $100 apiece was a four million dollar organization.

Today professional football as played in the National League is accepted as a major league sport. Its rise to pre-eminence was not quite as simple as that, however. There were long years of struggle against an uninformed public opinion. The first headline the game ever got appeared in the Chicago Herald and Examiner on January 30, 1922. It read: "Stagg Says Conference Will Break Professional Football Menace."

The story of the National League is, however, not so much this series of glorified milestones as it is a story of unusual personalities. Many before them had tried to make something of the idea conceived by those Latrobe, Pa., Y.M.C.A. boys and their Jeanette neighbors who met in the first professional football game on Tuesday, August 31, 1895.

George Halas and Curly Lambeau came along in 1920. Lambeau and Halas were a couple of young prospectors who could take their football in the raw, but could not leave it, nor understand how anyone else could. They placed the game on a full time basis with daily practice. Together with the late Joe F. Carr, who served as the league's president for 19 years, they wrought order out of chaos.

Five years later Tim Mara organized the Giants, and introduced professional football to New York. After Mara came George P. Marshall, who installed his first team in Boston, and after five years removed his Redskins to Washington where the club surged to tremendous prosperity.

Beating Packers

Giant Milestone

THE coaching regime of Steve Owen with the Giants has been studded with amazing feats. Season after season, the Polo Grounders have come through with flashing upsets. Perhaps no accomplishment of past seasons outdid the 24 to 0 victory which the Giants scored against the Green Bay Packers last Sunday.

Those of you who were lucky enough to be present saw young Howie Livingston, who never before had glimpsed Don Hutson, bottle up that great pass receiver most effectively. You saw Bill Paschal ignore his leg injury and turn in a great game. You saw plenty!

Here are the lineups and statistics of that game. You may want to keep them for future reference:

Slingin' Sam Arrives Here For Passing Fiesta Sunday

FRANK FILCHOCK

SAMMY BAUGH

THE Redskins are coming! Enough said. The Washington football outfit, with the great Sammy Baugh throwing those passes of his, is due at the Polo Grounds on Sunday. Once again the old debate will get new impetus. Is Baugh better than Sid Luckman?

Put that question to a coach and he will do a lot of ingenious dodging, and tell you, "I wish I had either. Sam has his qualities and Sid his, and they are all-time marvels."

Come out on Sunday and settle this thing for yourself. Slingin' Sam will be on the Harlem turf pitching with everything he has, for the Redskins, after their 37 to 7 setback by the Eagles, are in a tough mood.

Redskins Help Giants Close Regular Polo Grounds Season

WILBUR MOORE

ANDY FARKAS

THE regular championship season of the football Giants at the Polo Grounds is scheduled to end next Sunday. However, Steve Owen's men insist that this is not going to be the end of National League football here for 1944.

The Giants have plans. No sense in putting the whammie on them. But they have some notion of winning the Eastern competition, and piling into the Packers again on December 17, when the championship is to be decided in the East vs. West playoff, on the Eastern club's field.

After the Giants complete their regular schedule here on Sunday, they will face a battle in Washington on December 10. That same day the Cleveland Rams will be in Philadelphia, and it may turn out a most important contest.

While the Giants are tackling the Redskins next Sunday, the Philadelphia Eagles will be tackling on Brooklyn. Steve Owen insists that the Tigers, luckless to date, may hand the Eagles a surprise package. In any event, very interesting things are on the tapis.
