Thanks Again, to All

AT the Cleveland Rams Game on November 4 we had as our guests 6,731 Service men, bringing to 110,453 the number of our Armed forces who have been entertained at Giant football games since 1942.

The New York Football Giants Management again wishes to acknowledge the loyal cooperation of the fans whose attendance at our games has made it possible for us to extend the welcome of the park to the service personnel.

We also wish to express our thanks again to Horace Stoneham and his National Exhibition Company Staff for the full endorsement and cooperation which they have given.

Grateful acknowledgment also is made to the Harry M. Stevens organization—to Frank, Hal, Bill and Joe Stevens, whose cooperation and thoughtfulness has made the visit to the Polo Grounds more enjoyable for our Service men.

We hope that the 17,375 Service men who attended our first three 1945 home games carried away with them a lasting impression of the people of New York and an appreciation of the cooperation of the New York Football Giants' fans, who make their attendance at the games possible.

Tokyo Bay to the Polo Grounds, From Germany to Coogan's Bluff

THE New York Football Giants' list of Season Subscribers includes fans from six different states, many of whom travel over 100 miles each Sunday to occupy their same seats for all Giant home games at the Polo Grounds. During the present Season, however, the Football Giants' front office has had a score of experiences with far traveling Giant fans which makes all other such incidents seem mild in comparison.

The outstanding example of the perseverance of a Giant subscriber is brought out in the case of Lt. Martin Shenker, who holds a season subscription in Section 30—Upper Stands. Early last June, when the Giant office mailed out the section locations and bills to subscribers one was sent to Lt. Shenker at an Army Camp in Meriden, Mississippi. Nothing further was heard from Lt. Shenker until late in August when a letter arrived from Hochengeim, Germany requesting that the subscription be held for 1945. Early in September another letter arrived from Lt. Shenker in Germany enclosing his remittance and advising the office to mail out his tickets. The Giants take pride in subscribers like Lt. Shenker and trust he always will be with us.

The U. S. Navy is also well represented in the list of traveling Giant fans as evidenced by the many letters received from members of the fleet while in distant Pacific Areas. From the Carrier Enterprise early in September came a reservation for six tickets for the Washington game.

These men were at the Giant office soon after the Big E reached New York and picked up the tickets reserved months before in the Shadow of Tokyo. Also from the Navy came a reservation early in October from a group of officers on the famous Missouri. When these men picked up their tickets last week they remarked that acknowledgment of their reservation by the Giants management had reached them while the ship lay at anchor in Tokyo Bay.

The Giant management has had many pleasant experiences with its ticket subscribers but it feels the above incidents will be remembered above all others in that they tend to prove that no matter where the fan may be his tickets will be reserved as long as he wants them—and the management hopes that will be for a long time.

Green Bay Packers Face Giants Here Next Sunday

THE 1944 champions of the National Football League, the famous and ever colorful and interesting Green Bay Packers, come to the Polo Grounds next week to tackle the Giants.

Those who have been watching professional football since it came into New York cannot remember when a Packer outfit ever put up a poor contest here.

Standing out on the Green Bay team again is the ever-blooming, perennially starring Don Hutson. Enough said!

Attention, Giant Fans!

1946 Season Subscription Plan Now Open

THE time to reserve your seats for 1946 Giant home games is now—as a Season Subscriber.

The New York Football Giants' Season Subscription ticket plan enables you to obtain the same seats in advance for all Giant home games at the Polo Grounds.

The seats assigned to you as a Season Subscriber become your seats for as long as you care to use them. Tickets for the entire season are mailed to you in advance of the first home game, thus eliminating the necessity of your making frequent trips to pick up tickets. Moreover, if at any time you find you cannot use your tickets for any particular game you may exchange your seats at the Giant office the week before the contest.

Fans who now are taking advantage of the Season Subscription plan have first call on the front row seats in Sections 8 to 15 and 28 to 35 in the Upper Stands and in 11, 12, 32 and 33 Lower Stands. However, there are many fine seats left in most of these sections and in the "Coaches" section, namely Upper 22. There will also be open for Season Subscription in 1946 Upper Stand Sections 16, 27 and 36 and Lower Sections 10, 13, 34 and 35, thus affording new subscribers the opportunity to secure front row season seats. Notice of the assignment of tickets in your name and the location of your seats will be sent to you in advance for your approval.

Box Seats are available for 1946 in the Lower Stands only—all Upper Stand Box Seats having already been subscribed to for the 1946 season.

Act now to have your name listed for Season Subscription by calling at the New York Football Giants office, 11 West 42nd Street, N. Y. C. If you cannot call at the office, fill in the handy subscription blank below and mail to the Giants office at once. There is no obligation involved and you will have until next September to decide if you wish to take the seats assigned to you.

The 1946 schedule will be the best ever and the Giant management promises to field a team you will be glad to see.

Frank Liebel, Giant of the Week!

IN the game at Philadelphia last Sunday, Frank Liebel, end, Marion Pugh, halfback, and Howie Livingston, another back, shared the spotlight for the New York club as it found 17 points insufficient.

The contest's standout for New York was Liebel, for it was Frank who, with less than a minute to go, dashed 30 yards for a touchdown. Taking a pass from Pugh, Liebel scooted over without a Philadelphia tackler putting a restraining hand on him.

Ken Strong got the Giants three points with a 23 yard place kick, and Livingston took over their first touchdown with a drive into the Eagles' middle early in the last quarter.

Al Smith Memorial

ALL his life Alfred E. Smith held dear to his great heart St. Vincent's Hospital. For thirteen years, to the day of his death, he was chairman of its Advisory Board. For him St. Vincent's symbolized the pathos, the tolerance and the generosity of the Little Old New York of which Al Smith himself was its greatest symbol. St. Vincent's, like Al Smith, never turned away the sick, the needy, the destitute, whatever their race, their color or their creed. That was Al Smith's faith—Charity to Humanity!

Many who knew him best believe that a characteristic tribute would be an Alfred E. Smith Memorial Hospital—a 16-story, 250-bed addition to the St. Vincent's he loved so deeply and so well. Such a living memorial is at the same time urgently needed to help care for the needy sick of all races and creeds. Therefore, October fourth, the first anniversary of Al Smith's death, initiated a nation-wide appeal for $3,000,000 to build The Alfred E. Smith Memorial Hospital.

Today St. Vincent's is the only hospital with an ambulance service in Manhattan's lower West Side between Canal and Thirty-ninth Streets—one of the largest and most active dock, transportation and manufacturing areas in the world. Over a million people who live or work in this area or pass through it daily depend upon St. Vincent's for emergency service.

In charity there is no excess, for the joy of living is fulfilled in the joy of giving. Make your gift, today, to:

AL BLOZIS and Jack Lummus, who made the supreme war sacrifice this year, will be honored by the New York Club when plaques to memorialize their achievements will be unveiled at the Eagles game December 2. Blozis and Lummus typified the finest tradition of skill and sportsmanship on the gridiron. They were equally proficient in the grim business of war. Both were advancing against the enemy in their final engagements, Blozis in the Vosges Mountains in France; Lummus on Iwo Jima.

Blozis joined the Giants in 1942 after winning fame in football and as the world's champion shot putter at Georgetown. Big Al (he weighed 250 and stood 6:6) did well in his freshman year with the pros. In his second he won all-league tackle honors.

After the 1943 gridiron campaign the North Bergen, N. J. giant got into the Army the hard way. He had been turned down several times because of his size. After winning his gold bars, Al received special permission to play with the Giants the last three 1944 games. His gridiron farewell was December 17 when the Giants opposed the Green Bay Packers for the title. Two days later Al was on his way to the front.

Al was seeing his first combat as platoon leader of Co. A, 110th Infantry Regiment, January 31, 1945. He set out alone to find two members of his platoon in the snow-covered mountains close to the German lines.

Giants Will Dedicate Blozis and Lummus Memorials Dec. 2

There was a sudden blast of German machine gun fire. Big Al never came back.

Lummus came from Baylor University to play end for the Giants in 1941. The Texan enlisted in the Marine Corps in January, 1942.

1st Lt. Lummus was killed in an infantry-tank attack which broke one of the Japs' final and most stubborn lines of resistance on Iwo Jima. He was wounded fatally when a land mine exploded under him in the thick of one of the bitterest battles of the island campaign. At the time, Lummus was well in advance of his men directing the tanks. Even after he was wounded, the former Giant insisted on sending a report to his commanding officer, Maj. John W. Antonelli of Lawrence, Mass. Jack died a short time later.
