James J. Walker

The sudden and untimely death during the past week of the Honorable James J. Walker brought to people in all walks of life a feeling of profound sorrow and personal loss upon the passing of an old friend.

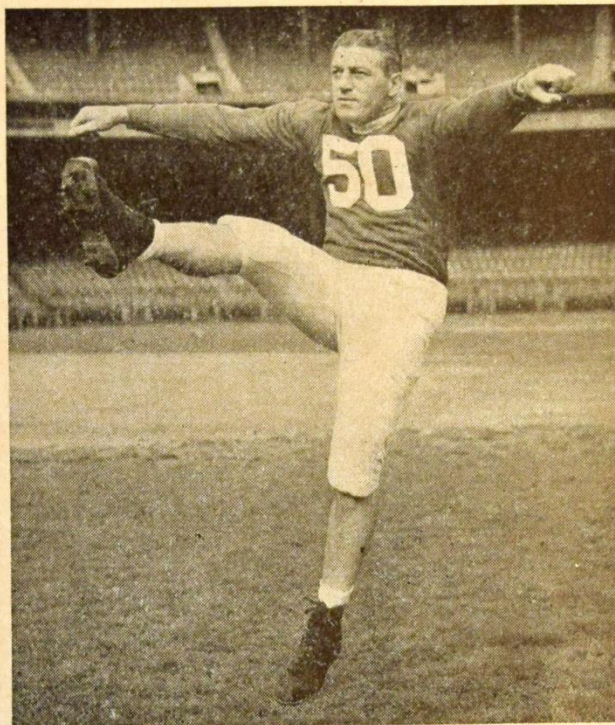

To followers of the Giants and to sports fans throughout the country the death of James J. Walker meant the loss of one of the greatest champions the world of sports has ever known.

Jimmy Walker was for sports one hundred per cent and he never tired in his determination to make the game better for his fans—the people.

Although he was a public figure, James J. Walker first of all was a close personal friend and we at the Polo Grounds will miss him keenly in the days to come.

The Mara Family, the Stoneham Family and the Stevens Family mourn the passing of a friend whose name never will be forgotten at the Polo Grounds.

☆ This Is KEN STRONG Day ☆

KEN STRONG

THIS is Ken Strong Day. Ken has enjoyed many great days on the gridiron. This occasion, however, is somewhat different. It is one day Strong, rounding out his remarkable twenty-four years of football, will remember and cherish. This afternoon's accolade demonstrates to Ken the high esteem and affection he is held in by thousands of fans for his outstanding feats, consistently high sportsmanship, and gentlemanly qualities.

The response to Ken Strong Day was one of the biggest and sincerest yet accorded to any athlete. Herewith is a cross-section of tributes:—

"Ken Strong has enjoyed an enviable collegiate and professional football career. His pigskin and baseball prowess at New York University is stamped indelibly upon our athletic records."—Albert Nixon, Graduate Manager of Athletics and Acting Chairman of the Board of Athletic Control of New York University.

"Ken Strong is one of our all-time greatest stars in the history of the National Football League. He is a wonderful credit to sports and football in particular."—Bert Bell, commissioner, National Football League.

"Ken's exceptional record speaks for itself. The Giant club management is indeed happy on this occasion to participate in tribute to Strong the player and man."—John V. Mara, president, New York Football Giants.

"Ken and I have been through many tough football battles. I never found him not willing to do his best. He always put the team's welfare above his own. Ken has securely found a place with football's all-time greats."—Steve Owen, N. Y. Football Giants head coach.

"I have intimately known Ken Strong since his N. Y. U. days. Thousands from Staten Island will be here to-day to offer Ken another reminder they don't forget him or his grand football for the old Stapleton club after he graduated from N. Y. U. In my opinion Strong is the greatest and most popular athlete Staten Island ever had."—Herman J. Bergasse, chairman, Ken Strong Day Committee.

Los Angeles Rams Coming to Polo Grounds Next Sunday

COMING to the Polo Grounds next Sunday—the Los Angeles Rams. Coming to the lee of Coogan's Bluff to make its bow before New York fans—the Los Angeles team of the National League, last year representing Cleveland.

Spotting greater opportunities in the California metropolis, the league sanctioned the transfer of Cleveland to Los Angeles, and the move has turned out eminently successful.

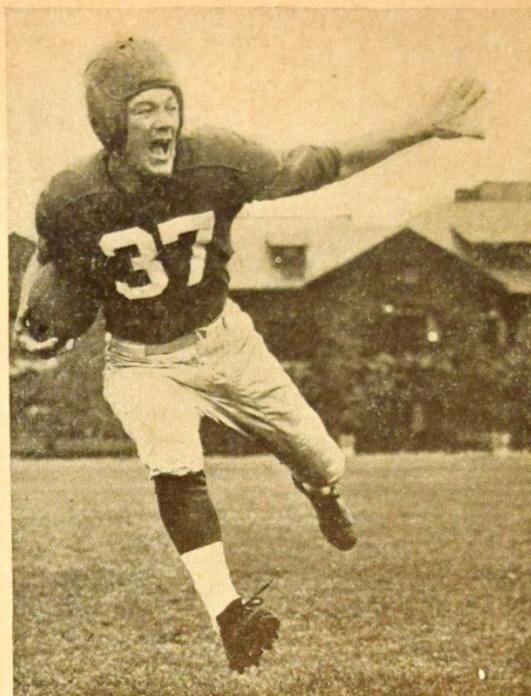

The Los Angeles personnel needs no introduction to the football fans of America. Players like pitching Bob Waterfield, like Tommy Harmon, once Michigan All-America, and Kenny Washington are known to every gridiron follower in the country.

The game between the Giants and the Rams should be one of the high lights of the National League season.

Esteem of Fans

GEORGE FRANCK

Giant Carrier

THE keen interest displayed by fans at the NEW YORK FOOTBALL GIANTS' games in selecting the outstanding GIANT of each contest continues unabated, with a flood of votes pouring in each week in the "Duel in the Sun" Competition.

This is further evidence of the widespread following that the GIANTS have attracted in their drive for titular honors in the National Football League. Members of the fair sex are proving to be pretty shrewd judges, with their selections closely paralleling the choices of the more rabid male fans.

Many youngsters whose Dads are starting them in at an early age to be confirmed

GIANTS rooters, show a remarkably keen insight of the game by their selections.

Another noteworthy factor in the contest is the recognition shown the linemen. Although it is the flashy backs who so often catch the eye, many fans have taken cognizance of the work of the forward wall in opening holes for the ball-carriers to sift through, and in checkmating opposing teams' offensive thrusts.

The two winners of the "Duel in the Sun" Contest thus far have been Frank Liebel and George Franck. The outstanding GIANT player of last week's fray against the Boston Yanks will be announced at halftime today.

SAMMY BAUGH

Sammy Baugh Coming To Polo Grounds
On December 8

THERE is one football player who is an unfailing, perennial attraction at the Polo Grounds, and he is Sammy Baugh, the pitching back of the Washington Redskins. Sam is coming here on December 8.

Tab that game with Washington as a must if you are a gridiron fan. Giant-Redskin contests always are thrilling and colorful, and this one promises to be more dramatic than ever. And highly important.

The Redskins beat the Giants, 24-14, early in the season, and Steve Owen's athletes are somewhat more than eager to prove that this was a fluke.

THOUGH the Giants were held to a tie by the amazing Boston Yanks last week, 28-28, Steve Owen's men remained out in front in the Eastern half of the National League. The result at the Polo Grounds was accompanied by Washington's 24-20 setback by the Bears, and Philadelphia's 10-7 upset against Pittsburgh.

The Western half of the circuit continues to be paced by the Bears. Green Bay's 9-0 victory over Detroit was one of the notable results of last Sunday's competition.

The Giants have their eyes on the big play-off, which very likely would be set for December 15. This year's playoff will be contested in the East.

Pittsburgh Steelers Boast Great Array of Backfield Strength

PITTSBURGH'S Steelers are here with a great array of backfield strength, and no mean power along the line. The Jock Sutherland outfit showed their class last Sunday when, with a last minute field goal by the great Bill Dudley, they beat the Philadelphia Eagles, 10-7.

Dudley, onetime star at the University of Virginia, is one of the greatest backs in the history of professional football. Johnny Clement is one of the standout passers of the National League.

The Steelers made a dramatic touchdown against the Eagles last week. Early in the last quarter Dudley intercepted a pass, on his own 32, and carried to Philadelphia's 24. Dudley then pitched one to Chuck Mehelich, who went to the one, and then Steve Lach went over and Merl Condit kicked the goal for the extra point.
