Variety Spices Giant Attack

WHEN Bob Topp marked his pro debut with a scoring catch Sunday, he became the eleventh Giant to make a touchdown this season in a remarkable display of over-all team striking power.

Variety also is the Giant pattern on defense. Six players have made interceptions. Em Tunnell has five, Dick Nolan and Herb Rich four, Pat Knight three, Tom Landry two and John Cannady one. That makes 19 in seven games, only four less than last season's entire total.

Variety is the keynote of a champion, according to End Coach Bill Swiacki, who played two years with the World Champion Lions. "You never see an individual Lion leading the league in ball carrying or scoring or pass receiving or anything else," Swiacki says, "but in team effort they are always on top."

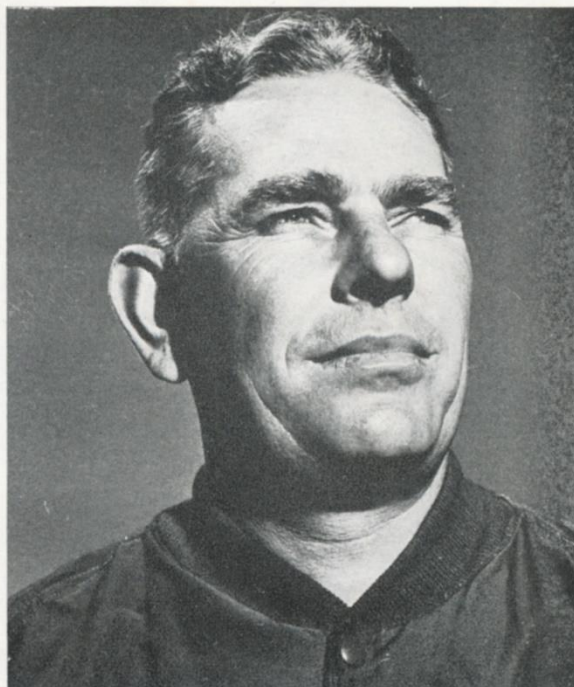

With so many players ready and able to score, the defense can not overbalance to stop one or two players, according to Swiacki. Head Coach Jim Lee Howell goes along with this. "Lately," Howell remarks, "the defense has been double-teaming Bob Schnelker and Kyle Rote. So we've had to pass to the other side, to Ken MacAfee and Eddie Price."

Howell's strategy has paid off. For a while no team could stop Schnelker, who scored seven times in five games. When the defense concentrated on him, Price and MacAfee got loose. Mac now has five touchdowns and Price four, one in each of the last four games.

The performance of the rookie, Topp, also focused attention on the tremendous improvement of the Giant end squad since 1953. Topp's was the thirteenth touchdown by a Giant end, compared to three for all ends last season.

Act Now for '55

If you are not presently a season subscriber to Giant football games, if this is just an occasional visit—why not make the most of your opportunity? Look around you and you'll agree the Polo Grounds is one of the best football stadia in the country. Consider your own location today. Do you like it? If you do, then that same location is available to you on a season subscription basis for next season. Just write the New York Football Giants, 11 West 42nd Street, New York 36, New York. We'll be glad to reserve for you for 1955 any location not held by one of this year's season subscribers.

Jim Lee Howell

Topp, who replaced Dick Wilkins (now on the injured list) for the Pittsburgh game, was Michigan's star end in '53 and was the Giants' thirteenth draft choice. He is a good all-around player with exceptionally strong hands. He is 22, 195, 6 foot 2.

At Michigan, although the team did not have a star passer, Topp caught 23 passes for 331 yards in nine games, to rank 17th in the nation among ends who had played 10 or 11 games.

Among the offensive backs, only Bobby Epps, fullback behind Price, has failed to score. The seven backs who have made touchdowns are Kyle Rote, Cutter Long, Herb Johnson, Charlie Conerly, Bob Clatterbuck, Frank Gifford and Price.

Not included among the scorers already mentioned is Ben Agajanian who has booted 25 straight extra points and seven field goals for 46 points. He paces the Giant point getters. Howell's policy of revising the Giant attack pattern each week has resulted in an interesting distribution of scoring.

Fighting for the division lead with the Eagles today, leading the East in scoring and second in the entire league, the Giants have come a long way from 1953, when they were last with 179 points in twelve games. The total now is 205 in seven games. The Giant defense is tied with Detroit on fewest opponents' points allowed, 15 per game.

Just for Kicks

ONE of the reasons why the New York Giants were leading both divisions of the National Football League in scoring at the end of the fifth week of play is a 35-year-old gent named Ben Agajanian.

In six games Bootin' Ben kicked seven field goals and 21 extra points—making 42 points in all. Not bad for a fellow whose football career almost was ended thirteen years ago when an elevator accident sheared off all the toes of his right foot.

Ben now wears a size 10 shoe on his left foot and a size 7 on his right. His "kicking surface" is about four inches wide. He is unerring from 40 yards or less but can kick them further. His own record is 53 yards, which he set some years back while with the Los Angeles Dons. Last year with the Rams, he kicked a 47-yarder and was the seventh best scorer in the league with 36 extra points and 10 field goals.

Agajanian, a six-footer, weighs 215 pounds. His pro career began in 1943 with a San Diego team just before he entered the Navy. That he was able to get in the Navy at all was a surprise to every one but Ben, who ingeniously did not inform his medical examiners that he had no toes on his kicking foot. Since he walks without a limp, the absence was not noted.

When the war was over, Agajanian signed with the Dons, eventually coming to the Giants in 1949. After that season, he stayed out of football until 1953, busy managing his sporting goods store in San Diego. The Rams, needing a kicker, called him back then. Agajanian's kicking as much as any other single factor kept the Rams in the thick of the race until late in the season.

Bootin' Ben started this season with the Washington Redskins, who were training on the west coast near his home. When the Redskins were able to woo Vic Janowicz from the Baseball Pirates, they had a kicker who could do the job for them and the Giants were able to get Agajanian.

With the Giants Ben wears No. 8, rather than the 3 which he has worn with other teams. Ben likes the 3 (which is short for 3-pointer), but the Giants retired the number many years ago. Len Grant, a guard who wore it with distinction, was killed in mid-season in 1938.

Agajanian is married and has two children. The oldest, a boy, is at the age where boys collect picture cards of football players. Ben is kept busy getting the cards autographed by players all over the league.

Ben played his college football at New Mexico, where he was a defensive end. In his early years in pro football, he continued at the position but, now at 35, Ben has given up the rougher aspects of the sport. He is still a crack tackler on kickoffs. He made two tackles against the Redskins, his former teammates, last month, once downing Charley Justice when he was the last man between Justice and a touchdown.

Ben trains himself during Giant workouts at the Polo Grounds each day, doing just enough practice kicking to keep his leg limber and his aim true.

ATTENTION FANS!

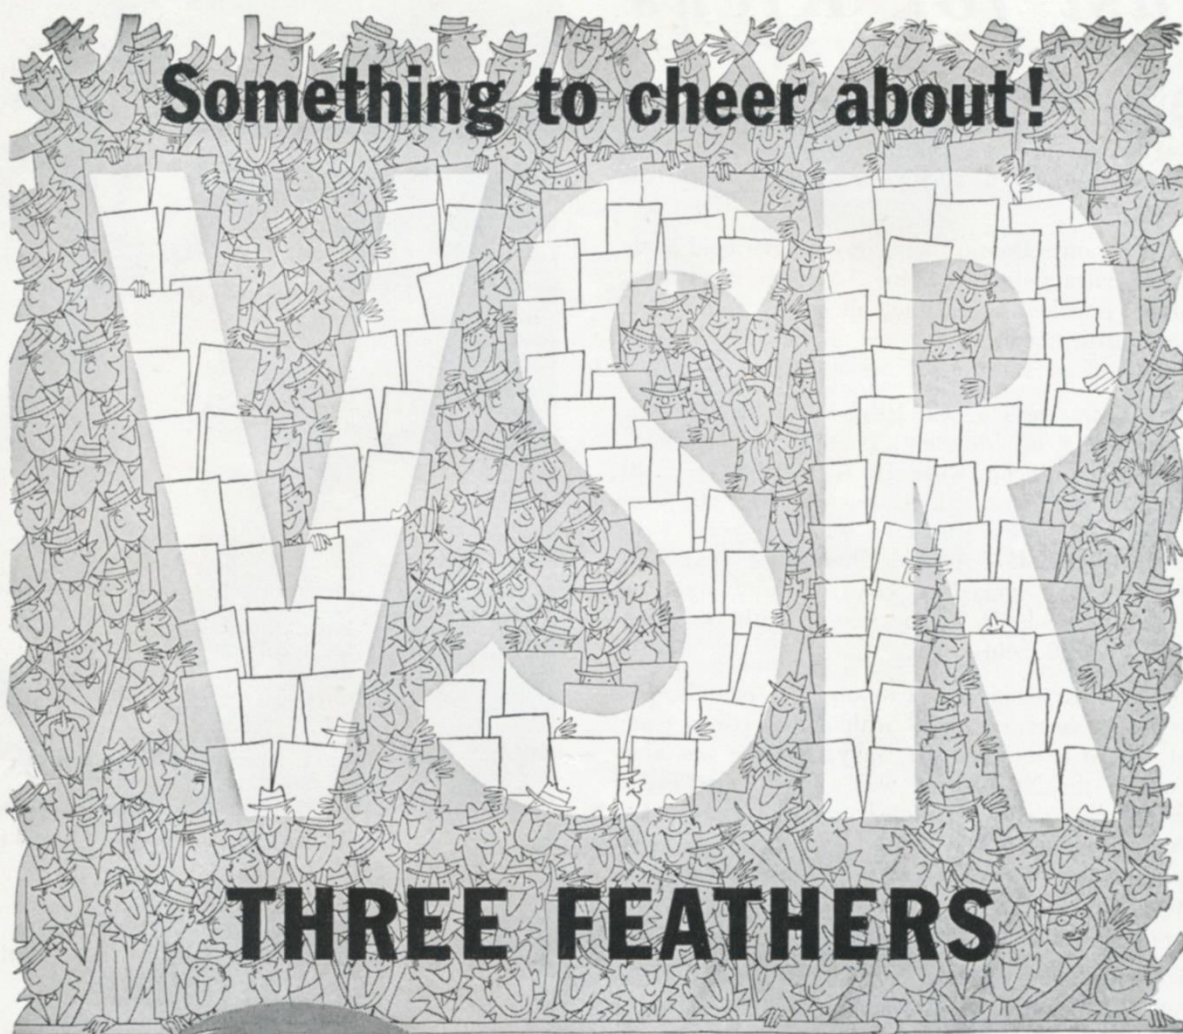

For the comfort and convenience of those attending Giant home games, it is requested that all ticket-holders take their seats by way of the entrance ramps leading to their own sections.

These entrance ramps are clearly marked. Using them will take you to your seat by the most direct route and with a minimum of confusion.

Give yourself—and the other fellow—a break and avoid walking in front of other sections while going to your seat.

Meet the Giants

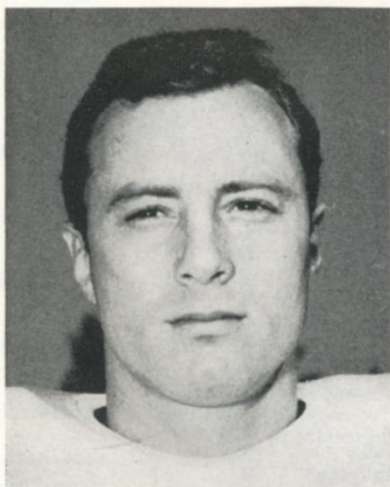

Ken MacAfee

Ken MacAfee (80), fleet rookie from Alabama, is helping to fill a pressing Giant need of long standing. He's what they call in the trade a "long end": that is one who has the speed to go downfield for deep passes and the ball-carrying ability to convert his catches into big gains. His presence in the line-up has greatly increased the punch and versatility of the Giant attack.

Bob Schnelker (85), another new Giant but a sophomore pro, has performed brilliantly to date. Operating from the left flank, the 6-foot-4 Bowling Green grad grabbed seven touchdown passes in the first six games. Bob doesn't have great speed but has a genius for getting clear and the size, strength and sure hands to come down with the ball under defensive pressure. The Giants got him from the Eagles in a trade.

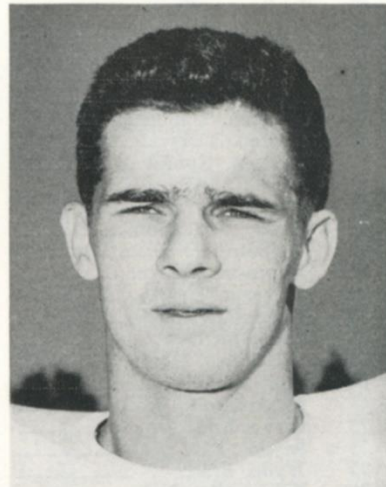

Bob Schnelker

Herb Rich

Herb Rich (27) came to the Giants from the Los Angeles Rams, whom he served with distinction for four years, just before the start of the season. He immediately established himself as a mainstay of the Giants' defensive umbrella. Fast and knowing, he has been a big help to Em Tunnell and Tom Landry in steadying the talented rookies the Giants are breaking in as defensive backs. It was a stroke of fortune that the New Yorkers were able to add this solid "old pro" to their roster.

Dick Nolan (25), a Maryland graduate from White Plains, N. Y., has won a regular job in the Giants' defensive backfield as a rookie. Dick still has tricks to learn in the fine art of pass defense but his speed, quick reactions and zeal for combat augur well for his chances of developing into a stalwart deep defender. Regular right halfback for the Terrapins' national champions of 1953, he also is serviceable on offense if needed.

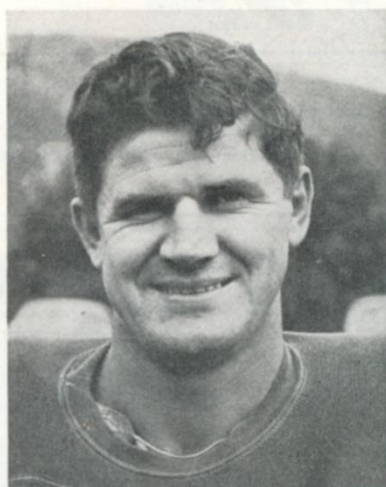

Dick Nolan

Pat Knight

Pat Knight (34), from Southern Methodist, joined the Giants in 1952. He won respect as a freshman for his blocking and line-backing ability, but an early-season injury kept him on the sidelines all last year. Now Pat's back in action as a defensive end. He has been a spectacular performer in that new job. His play against the Redskins three weeks ago will long be remembered by Polo Grounds fans. He was all over the field making booming tackles, grabbing passes and pouncing on fumbles.

John Rapacz (53), a seven-year pro from Oklahoma, is in his fifth season with the Giants. During his tenure at the Polo Grounds, he has distinguished himself as a blocker. Amazingly agile for a 260-pounder, he knows how to use his bulk to the best advantage in the key center post of the Giant T. Big John is rated one of the most accurate snapback passers in football. He can hit a goalpost seven times of ten from 15 yards away.

Looking Over the Eagles

COACH JIM TRIMBLE

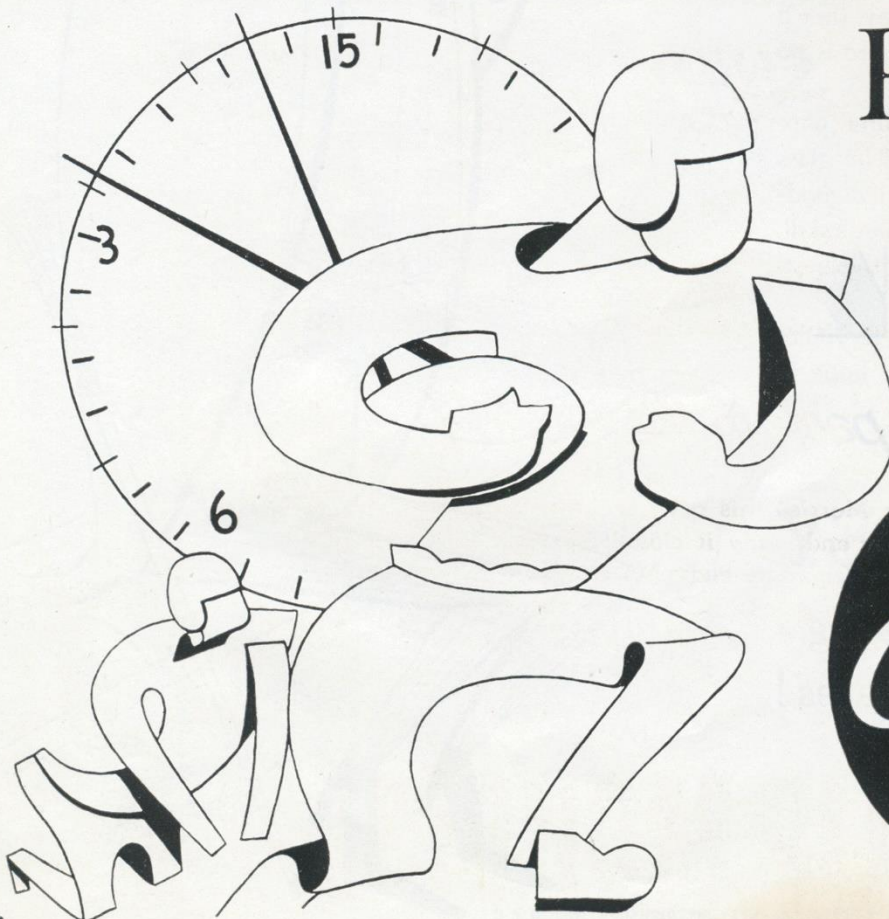

KEN SNYDER

Under the direction of Jim (Tiny) Trimble, the Eagles have made steady upward progress. The youngest coach in the National League at 36, Trimble brought his team home in a second-place tie, with a 7-5 record, in 1952. The Eagles improved to 7-4-1 last year, as runner-ups to the Browns. They are very much in the divisional title fight this season.

A dazzling passing attack and a rock-ribbed defense are among Philadelphia's assets. They have two crack throwers in Adrian Burk and Bobby Thomason and a flock of good receivers headed by Pete Pihos and Jerry Williams (Bobby Walston will miss today's game because of a shoulder separation). Jim Parmer, fullback, is the chief Eagle running threat.

Prominent in the rugged Philadelphia defense are Norm Willey, all-league end last year, and Chuck Bednarik, all-pro linebacker for five straight seasons. Other mainstays are middle guard Frank Kilroy, who has answered "here" for twelve seasons, and huge Mike Jarmoluk, slashing 259-pound right tackle. Worthy of mention also is Ken (Lum) Snyder, rated by many experts as football's best offensive tackle.

The reason Schenley's so all-fired popular is here in this hourglass. The glass itself represents Nature's unhurried goodness. The big 'S' stands for Schenley's skill. Together, they make Schenley the best-tasting whiskey in ages!

Rams Here Next Sunday

TOM FEARS

The Giants, who face nothing but tough opposition from here on in, tackle one of their stiffest assignments next Sunday. That's the occasion on which the mighty Los Angeles Rams visit the Polo Grounds.

The colorful, attack-minded Rams have been one of the Big Three of the National Football League's Western Conference since the reorganization of the circuit several years ago.

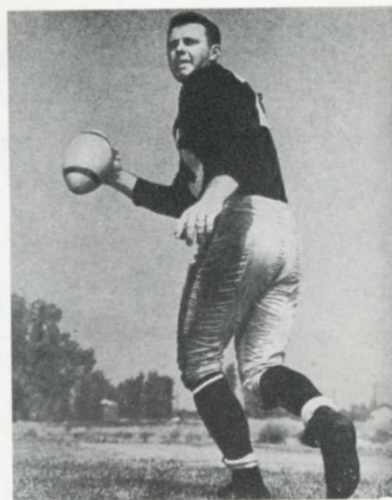

Their list of players to watch is headed by Norm Van Brocklin, the league's top passer over the first half of the season; Bill Boyd, Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch and Tom Fears, pass-receivers extraordinary, and Tank Younger, Deacon Dan Towler and Volney Quinlan, three of the most formidable running backs on the pro circuit.

Blinding speed distinguishes the Los Angeles attack. Significant of this is the 1501 yards Van Brocklin has gained with his 78 pass completions. That's an average of nearly 20 yards per completion. Boyd has galloped 718 yards on his 29 catches, averaging nearly 25 yards per catch. Hirsch has averaged 18.10 yards, Quinlan 18.85 yards and Fears 16.71 yards on their receptions. With Younger and Quinlan setting the pace with

NORM VAN BROCKLIN

6-yard-plus averages, the Rams have netted better than five yards per rush.

Coach Hamp Pool's squad also has good defensive personnel. Outstanding on the protective platoon are Stan West, one of the best middle guards in the league; Les Richter, the All-America guard from California; Andy Robustelli, a crackerjack end; and Don Doll and Bill Sherman, a pair of far-ranging deep secondaries. Sherman, a rookie from St. Mary's, ranks among the league's pass interception leaders.

Steeler game was the first time this season when no Giant halfback threw a pass, which supplies further evidence that Coach Jim Lee Howell changes his offense for every game.

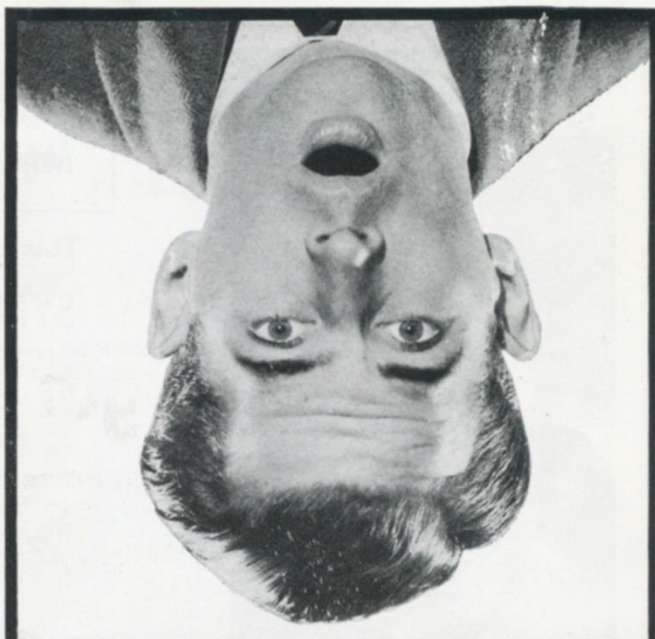

Arrangements have been made to have the Yankee Stadium parking lots open when the Giants play in the Polo Grounds. These facilities are in addition to those provided by the official Polo Grounds parking lot. From the Stadium to the Polo Grounds is just one short stop on the Independent Subway or an easy walk across the bridge from Sedgewick Avenue.

The Bangor Yellow Jackets, a senior drum and bugle corps representing the Emlyn H. Evans Post 378 of the American Legion, Bangor, Pa., were organized in 1927. They became the Pennsylvania American Legion State Champions in 1932 and again in 1939. The corps was reorganized in 1952 as a parade unit after being disbanded for several years. Many prizes have been awarded to the Yellow Jackets for their fine appearance in numerous parades in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

This group decided to enter field competition in 1953 with additional personnel and, under the direction of Jim Prime, placed sixth at the state competition in Pittsburgh. During the winter the drill and music were changed and a vastly improved corps took the field last spring. This corps has given many exhibitions and is a member of the Interstate Circuit of American Legion Championship Drum and Bugle Corps.

THE GEM V-EDGE

ideas about shaving!

The reason is simple. GEM has 4 times more steel than wafer-thin, double-edge blades. It's a well known fact that you can put a sharper edge on a heavier piece of steel. And in a razor blade, it's sharpness that counts. That's why GEM'S extra steel can be honed to its famous 'V'-Edge—the sharpest edge angle of all!

Here's why GEM'S 'V'-EDGE gives you better shaves

The GEM Blade with 4-times more steel comes to a longer, sharper 'V'-Edge—the sharpest edge angle of all. It gives you more, easier and longer lasting shaves.

You get 10 GEM 'V'-Edge blades in a dispenser with a used blade vault PLUS a GEM Razor in a handy, lightweight traveling case... all for only 98¢!

SCOUTING AROUND With Jack Lavelle

THIS ought to be quite a ball game today. Wish I could see it instead of spying on the Browns against the Bears (the front office wants me to track down a rumor that Cleveland has come up with a great passer, a fellow by the name of Graham). I watched the Eagles claw the Cardinals last Sunday and, believe me, they did quite a job. The Giants are going to have to be just as sharp as they were against Pittsburgh to win this one.

Philadelphia didn't use Don Johnson and Jerry Williams against the Cardinals, Jim Parmer was hurt in the game and Bobby Walston was used only as a kicker. It didn't seem to make any difference, though. Neil Worden helped take up the slack. That boy is a real fine runner. No wonder Notre Dame was rough the last few years with fellows like Worden and Johnny Lattner in the backfield.

I was impressed with the defensive end play of Norm Willey and Tom Scott. Those two guys fly across the line like they have a compact to shake hands in the other backfield on every play. They make the rendezvous as often as not. Having old hands Bednarik and Robinson to back up the line does wonders for the Eagle defense. Bednarik, incidentally, came up with a new way of keeping Matson and Goble from making those long kick-off returns. He teed the ball sideways, with one end slightly tilted. When he kicked it, the ball went five directions at once, like Hoyt Wilhelm's knuckler.

It looked like Eagles' Alumni Day on the Cards' bench, with Greasy Neale, John Kellison, Joe Muha and Tommy Thompson all there to lend aid and comfort to Joe Stydahar. The way the Eagle undergraduates performed, they had to lend more comfort than aid. Commissioner Bert Bell, another Eagle alumnus, was there too and gave his official blessing to a ruling that I never had seen before.

Some Eagle, I forget just who, reached way over the sideline to grab a pass. I figured it was no play on the theory that you have to complete one step in bounds after making a catch. But the Commissioner said it was perfectly legal because this receiver was dragging his feet on in-bounds turf when he dove for the ball. That's a new interpretation on me.

TODAY'S SELECTIONS: Los Angeles over the Cards, Detroit over San Francisco, Cleveland over the Bears (it could go the other way), Green Bay over Baltimore, Pittsburgh over Washington.
